About this book

This book explains our
Student Conduct Policy in Easy Read.

A Student Conduct Policy is a document that lists rules for respectful and inclusive student behaviour.

Inclusive means everyone is welcome.
For example, students with disability.

We call it the policy in this book.

Why did we make the policy?

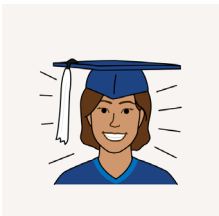

We made the policy to help students

- know what we expect them to do

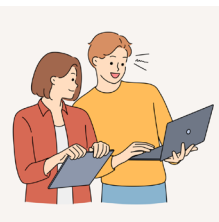

- know what behaviour to expect from other students.

Who is the policy for?

The rules in the policy should be followed by

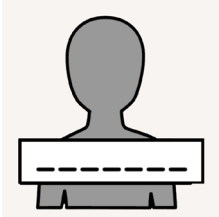

- students at Victoria University

- members of the Victoria University community. For example, people who work on campus.

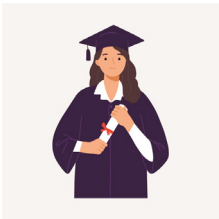

What students must do

Honesty and integrity

Students must not

- pretend to be someone else

- use a fake degree or lie to get into the University.

Students must be honest.

Respectful behaviour

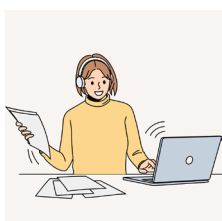

Respectful behaviour must be shown online and in person.

Students must

- treat everyone with respect

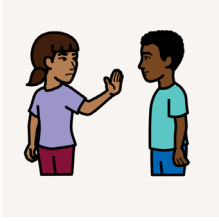

- help make our University a safe place to study and learn

- show respect when you do activities outside of campus

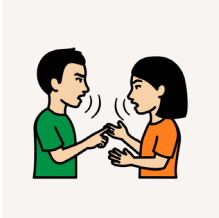

- respect every person's right to safely stand up for the things they believe in.

Students must not

- be disrespectful

- threaten or try to scare others

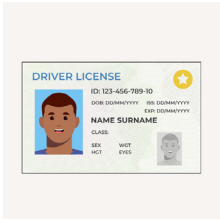

- bully others

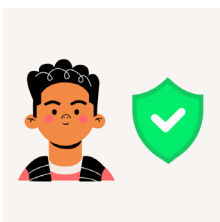

- break the law.

Safety

All students at Victoria University must

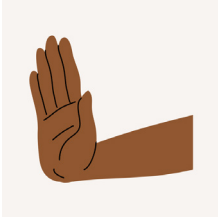

- share information about who you are if the University asks, such as identification

- act in a safe way and not put yourself or others in danger

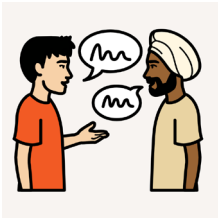

- not take part in learning, research, placements, or trips if you have had alcohol or drugs.

You must not bring, use, or share banned weapons or banned substances on university property.

Students must follow any reasonable request from University staff.

A reasonable request is a direction from a staff member to a student about their behaviour.

Respecting property

You must show respect for University property.

University property can be any item the University owns. For example, computers, furniture or buildings.

University reputation

Reputation rules apply online and in person.

You must protect the reputation of the University.

Reputation means we look trustworthy to others.

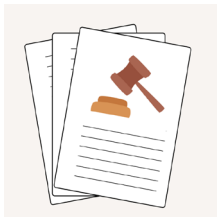

For example, you must not share fake information that can make the University look bad.

You must only use our logo or name for private activities if we say yes first.

Legal and policy compliance

Legal and policy compliance means you follow the law and all university policies. For example

- all policies and rules on placements

- all government rules about health and safety.

Inappropriate behaviour or misconduct

If you do not follow this policy, we might take disciplinary action.

Disciplinary action means your access to University services might change or be taken away.

If you see inappropriate behaviour and need help right away, contact security or the police.
